

Love, Romance, Comedy, Sex, Philosophy, and Mystery are all wrapped up in this epochal story of a time-contorted love affair. Though he had always thought it to be impossible, Edward Lewis finally realizes his fantasy of being transported back in time to meet the actress Miss Audra Monahan. Yet Edward would face the dilemma of desiring to retain elements of his current life while simultaneously pursuing his obsession with the woman of his dreams. Such a dilemma would result in retaining certain possessions of his current life, such as his smart phone and cash assets that would only complicate his memory regarding the history of his new life. A history that would include an ill-fated brain experiment, the disappearance of a long-time federal agent's daughter, and powerful secrets that no one wants exposed. Passionate love, deep philosophical dialogue, creative science fiction, and thrilling intrigue are all part of this perfect romance that is ultimately realized retroactively.